5. Is travelling in Italy safe ?

Hi, passing the details about security situation you wanted to your request with you needed.

 "Italy":

📰 Aggiornato, 13 maggio 2025 • 13:40 Il ministro Urso incolpa la magistratura di aver autorizzato in ritardo gli interventi di messa in sicurezza dell'altoforno 1, dopo un incendio avvenuto il 7 maggio. Con un altoforno in meno, gli obiettivi di produzione diventano irraggiungibili. L'azienda raddoppia il ricorso agli ammortizzatori sociali, da circa 2mila a 4mila. Si raffredda la trattativa con Baku Steel, i commissari di Adl cercano alternative. Fiom: si rischia il fallimento La crisi dell'ex ilva di Taranto si aggrava, trascinando il colosso siderurgico italiano verso un baratro che minaccia non solo migliaia di posti di lavoro, ma l'intero sistema industriale del Paese. Acciaierie d'Italia (Adi) ha annunciato oggi la richiesta di cassa integrazione per un massimo di 5.500 lavoratori, pari alla metà dell'organico del gruppo, con un impatto devastante soprattutto sullo stabilimento di Taranto. La decisione, comunicata ai sindacati metalmeccanici convocati stamane, è la diretta conseguenza del sequestro dell'altoforno 1, disposto dalla Procura di Taranto dopo l'incendio dello scorso 7 maggio, e del crollo della produzione di acciaio, già ai minimi storici. A questo si aggiunge l'incertezza sulla trattativa con Baku Steel, l'azienda azera che sembrava rappresentare l'ultima speranza per il rilancio dell'impianto, ma che ora potrebbe ritirarsi. Acciaierie d'Italia in amministrazione straordinaria ha comunicato ai sindacati la richiesta di cassa integrazione per 3.926 lavoratori, di cui 3.538 nello stabilimento di Taranto, a seguito del dimezzamento della produzione causato dal sequestro dell'altoforno 1, disposto dalla Procura dopo il grave incendio del 7 maggio, innescato dallo scoppio di una tubiera. La cassa integrazione riguarderà anche 178 lavoratori del sito di Genova, 165 dello stabilimento di Novi Ligure e 45 di quello di Raconigi. La misura, che supera il tetto di 3.062 cassintegrati a rotazione stabilito nell'accordo del 4 marzo al ministero del Lavoro, richiede una nuova negoziazione con i sindacati, un processo che si preannuncia complesso data la crescente tensione tra le parti. Fino a oggi, a Taranto la cassa integrazione coinvolgeva circa 2.000 lavoratori, ma il crollo produttivo ha reso inevitabile un incremento significativo. Michele De Palma, segretario generale della Fiom, ha sottolineato la criticità della situazione: «Siamo tornati al punto in cui o ci si assume tutti la responsabilità e si garantiscono investimenti, o a rischio non è solo l'occupazione, ma la tenuta dell'industria metalmeccanica italiana». De Palma ha chiesto trasparenza sulla reale condizione dell'azienda e interventi urgenti per mantenere la produzione, avvertendo che senza un piano di rilancio produttivo e decarbonizzazione, l'ex ilva rischia il fallimento. L'incidente del 7 maggio ha segnato un punto di svolta nella travagliata vicenda dell'ex ilva. L'incendio all'altoforno 1 ha spinto la Procura di Taranto a disporre un sequestro probatorio senza facoltà d'uso, bloccando l'impianto. Secondo Acciaierie d'Italia, la Procura avrebbe autorizzato con ritardo – solo sabato pomeriggio – gli interventi urgenti richiesti per mettere in sicurezza l'altoforno, interventi che, a detta dell'azienda, avrebbero dovuto essere eseguiti entro 48 ore dall'incidente. I lavori, iniziati solo lunedì, potrebbero non essere sufficienti a salvare l'impianto. Il ministro delle Imprese e del Made in Italy Adolfo Urso ha definito l'altoforno 1 "verosimilmente compromesso", sottolineando come i ritardi autorizzativi abbiano aggravato una situazione già critica. Con l'altoforno 1 fuori gioco e con l'altoforno 4 operativo, la produzione di acciaio a Taranto è destinata a ridursi ulteriormente. Nel 2024, l'ex ilva ha prodotto appena 2 milioni di tonnellate, contro i 4 milioni previsti per il 2025. Ora, anche questo obiettivo appare irrealizzabile, spingendo l'azienda a ricorrere a una cassa integrazione su vasta scala. A complicare il quadro, la trattativa con Baku Steel, l'azienda azera che a febbraio aveva annunciato l'acquisizione dell'ex ilva, sembra essere in stallo. L'incidente all'altoforno 1 e le incertezze sulla capacità produttiva dello stabilimento hanno raffreddato l'interesse degli investitori azeri. Secondo alcune fonti, Baku Steel starebbe valutando di ritirarsi, mentre i commissari di Adl avrebbero avviato contatti con il colosso cinese Baosteel per sondare alternative. Il ministro Urso ha cercato di rassicurare: "Il negoziato è in corso, siamo sui nodi cruciali e andiamo avanti con determinazione". Tuttavia, ha lanciato un appello alla responsabilità di tutte le parti coinvolte – autorità locali, nazionali e sindacati – affinché collaborino per evitare il collasso: "Se restiamo tutti nella stessa direzione, possiamo raggiungere l'obiettivo di un ilva che contribuisca all'autonomia strategica italiana ed europea nella siderurgia, con la decarbonizzazione a tutela di ambiente e salute". Ma il tempo stringe, e la situazione dell'ex ilva è sempre più drammatica. © Riproduzione riservata Per continuare a leggere questo articolo Sei già abbonato? Di Francesco Giuliani 2 mesi fa Quando cominciano le luminarie di gaeta? Di Francesco Giuliani 8 mesi fa Quali sono le spiagge libere a gaeta? Di Francesco Giuliani 8 mesi fa La situazione occupazionale e produttiva del gruppo Fedrigoni nelle Marche resta sotto osservazione dopo l'incontro tra rappresentanti sindacali e dirigenti. A maggio circa 30 ex dipendenti Giano si trovano ancora in cassa integrazione secondo gli accordi presi al ministero, mentre una parte lavora temporaneamente negli stabilimenti della zona, senza però essere coperta da ammortizzatori sociali. Nel contempo, emergono preoccupazioni sulle prospettive di rilancio e sulle scelte industriali future, soprattutto in relazione alla produzione di carta e ai macchinari fermi ormai da tempo. Nel corso di maggio, circa 30 lavoratori provenienti dall'azienda Giano risultano in trattamento di cassa integrazione straordinaria, in base agli accordi siglati al tavolo del Ministero delle imprese e del Made in Italy. Oltre a questi, ci sono 40 persone impiegate attualmente negli stabilimenti del gruppo nelle Marche, ma su base temporanea e quindi fuori dall'ombrello degli ammortizzatori sociali. La conferma arriva dal segretario regionale Ulcom Marche, Valerio Monti, che sottolinea come la situazione numerica rimanga piuttosto stabile e in linea con gli accordi precedenti. La cassa integrazione riguarda quindi una parte delle maestranze, mentre l'altra lavora senza garanzie particolari, in attesa di sviluppi che chiariscano la tenuta occupazionale. Questo passaggio dimostra lo stallo che interessa il gruppo Fedrigoni nella regione, con parti del personale ancora tutelate, altre invece occupate in modo intermittente e senza una prospettiva certa. La situazione resta complessa perché non solo le maestranze sono divise tra garanzie e precarietà, ma pesano anche le condizioni di alcuni stabilimenti e la frenata produttiva, compresa la sospensione di macchinari importanti, che rischiano di incidere ulteriormente sul futuro occupazionale. Il 16 maggio a Fabriano, in provincia di Ancona, si è svolto un vertice tra le Rsu del gruppo Fedrigoni e i vertici della divisione Paper. Presenti Fulvio Capussotti, nuovo responsabile divisione carta, e Giuseppe Giacobello, responsabile delle relazioni industriali. I rappresentanti sindacali hanno espresso una serie di preoccupazioni riguardo allo stato della produzione. Prima di tutto, è stata evidenziata la decisione di posticipare la ripresa della carta di sicurezza, inizialmente prevista entro l'estate 2025, ora rinviata al 2026. Questo comporta una dilatazione dei tempi per il ritorno a pieno regime produttivo su questa linea. Altra nota negativa riguarda la sospensione della produzione di carta da ufficio e il blocco della macchina F3 nello stabilimento di Fabriano. Un macchinario considerato strategico, che però non è più in funzione. A ciò si aggiunge la macchina di Pioraco, importante impianto rimasto fermo a causa dei danni provocati dal terremoto che ha colpito la zona. Questo macchinario non è stato rimesso in funzione e non risulta ci siano progetti concreti per riportarlo in attività. La somma di queste situazioni ha creato difficoltà nella capacità produttiva complessiva del gruppo nelle Marche e ha sollevato forti timori sul futuro industriale di tali impianti. I sindacati hanno chiesto di affrontare queste problematiche con urgenza, sottolineando la necessità di interventi che evitino ulteriori perdite di posti di lavoro e la progressiva desertaificazione dei siti produttivi storici. Durante l'incontro a Fabriano, la rappresentanza sindacale ha formulato alcune richieste precise per migliorare la condizione dei lavoratori e rilanciare l'attività produttiva. Uno dei punti principali riguarda la stabilizzazione dei lavoratori ancora in prestito o in somministrazione, per garantire maggiore sicurezza occupazionale. Hanno poi richiesto una riduzione del ricorso alla cassa integrazione straordinaria, auspicando un rientro a una produzione più regolare e un minore utilizzo di rapporti temporanei. Il rilancio del comparto cartario è stato invocato con l'attenzione posta sul valore storico degli stabilimenti e sull'esperienza consolidata dei lavoratori, elementi che dovrebbero rappresentare un punto di forza per arginare la crisi. Queste richieste sono state poste per indirizzare un confronto più strutturato sulle scelte produttive future che incidono direttamente sulla vita dei siti marchigiani. Giacobello, da parte sua, ha confermato che in un prossimo incontro previsto a Verona nei primi giorni di giugno si discuteranno più a fondo le questioni più importanti. Ha però sottolineato che la macchina F3, bloccata a Fabriano, non potrà più essere riavviata e probabilmente verrà venduta. Un segnale chiaro che indica un cambio di strategia nell'azienda, che rischia di impattare pesantemente sull'occupazione locale e sulla produzione. Il gruppo dovrà ora confrontarsi con le rappresentanze sindacali per chiarire quali saranno le scelte industriali e come queste influenzeranno il futuro del lavoro nelle Marche, in un momento di delicatezza che non lascia spazio a decisioni affrettate. Le prossime settimane saranno decisive per capire in che modo si evolverà la situazione, dentro un contesto economico e sociale già fragile per la regione e l'intero comparto cartario italiano.

L'incontro vedrà la partecipazione di esperti del settore, esponenti delle parti dell'ordine e rappresentanti politici dandosi appuntamento presso il Museo di Storia Naturale del Mediterraneo di Livorno il 17 maggio 2025 a partire dalle ore 09.30. Tra i principali focus dell'evento: evoluzione delle normative in materia di sicurezza; criticità operative e i rischi legati all'attività quotidiana degli operatori; supporto psicologico come leva essenziale per la tutela del benessere psico-fisico del personale; coinvolgimento attivo dei cittadini come elemento chiave per un sistema di sicurezza condiviso. Il dibattito sarà coordinato dal Dott. Giampaolo Dotto, security manager del Comune di Livorno, Sostituto Commissario della Polizia di Stato in quiescenza, e oggi Presidente di Intelligence Inside, una società di investigazioni internazionali privata per aziende ed è un docente di criminologia. E' un colonnello in congedo dell'Arma dei carabinieri, che ha lasciato nel 2004 dopo aver ricoperto incarichi importanti in Sicilia, in Calabria a Roma ed in Veneto, sia alla territoriale sia al ROS. In Sicilia ha comandato la Compagnia Carabinieri di Corleone ed è noto per le sue indagini con il Giudice Giovanni Falcone. È autore di numerosi saggi e dei romanzi "Eroi Silenziosi" e "Un'Arma nel cuore". Interverrà sulla sicurezza urbana e sui rischi operativi: "metropolitane e bande giovanili: non solo un problema di polizia"; è un docente di criminalità nei corsi di scienze criminologiche e forensi all'Università degli Studi La Sapienza di Roma. E' un colonnello in congedo dell'Arma dei Carabinieri. Arruatosi nel 1977 alla Scuola Militare Nunziatella, ha intrapreso un percorso professionale operativo. Da Tenente, nel 1984 è stato destinato a Secondigliano al comando del Plotone di Intervento del Battaglione Campania, impiegato in attività di ordine pubblico e controllo del territorio ad alta intensità criminale. Dal 1986 al 1988 ha diretto il Nucleo Operativo di Torre Annunziata, coordinando complesse attività investigative nel contesto della guerra di camorra tra Cutoliani e Nuova Famiglia, sviluppando tecniche d'indagine in ambienti ad altissima pressione criminale. Ha guidato la Compagnia di Vallo della Lucania (1989 -1993), potenziando l'azione preventiva nel territorio. Trasferito in Basilicata, ha operato prima alla Compagnia di Policoro, dove ha contrastato i clan della Sacra Corona Unita, e successivamente al Reparto Operativo di Potenza, dove ha diretto l'indagine che ha disarticolato sul nascere la formazione della quinta mafia: i Basilischi, attuando strategie d'infiltrazione e contrasto di stampo investigativo. Docente di tecniche investigative e tecniche di intervento operativo alla Scuola Marescialli di Velletri terminava la sua carriera nel 2008 al Reparto Operativo di Rieti. Affronta il tema dell'insicurezza della Polizia di Sicurezza. Psicologo (iscritto all'Ordine degli Psicologi del Lazio) è considerato uno dei massimi esperti di Psicologia connessa all'attività di polizia e alla gestione dello stress in combattimento. Dirigente della Polizia di Stato in quiescenza, collabora ora con diversi dipartimenti di polizia della California per sviluppare tecniche di addestramento psicologico dei reparti speciali. In Italia è il Direttore del Dipartimento di Psicologia militare e di polizia di Unama che offre supporto psicologico gratuito agli operatori di polizia. Interverrà sulla "cattiva gestione dello stress e riduzione dell'efficacia operativa nelle Forze di Polizia". Avv. Matteo Vivoli, responsabile sicurezza PD – Unione Comunale di Livorno. Alessandro Guarducci, giornalista e consigliere comunale di Forza Italia, Costanza Vaccaro, presidente del gruppo consiliare Alternativa Popolare. Il Segretario Generale Regionale Toscana di Unarma, Costantino Fiori, ha scelto di partire da Livorno, città che storicamente rappresenta un simbolo di inclusione, chiarezza e apertura al dialogo. Un territorio in cui le differenze hanno spesso trovato spazio per confrontarsi e costruire. È proprio in questa cornice che vuole lanciare un messaggio forte: la sicurezza è valore universale che riguarda ogni cittadino, indipendentemente da appartenenze politiche o sociali. Il coinvolgimento di rappresentanti istituzionali e politici locali di diversa estrazione nasce da un'esigenza precisa: costruire una comunità di intenti, capace di andare oltre le divisioni per concentrarsi su ciò che davvero conta. Il benessere e la sicurezza di chi serve lo Stato non possono essere temi oggetto di semplificazioni. Occorre invece un rapporto serio, tecnico e umano, che riconosca l'impegno quotidiano degli operatori e favorisca un confronto sano tra istituzioni e cittadini. Parlare di sicurezza oggi significa anche promuovere una nuova cultura del rispetto reciproco e della partecipazione consapevole all'azione. Il Segretario Generale Provinciale di Livorno, Sebastiano Quattrocchi. Coinvolgere i cittadini non è un gesto simbolico: la popolazione deve sentirsi parte attiva e non semplice spettatrice. Il Vice Segretario Generale Provinciale Unarma di Livorno, Giovanni Celesta, dichiara che in un'epoca in cui le forze di polizia affrontano sfide sempre più complesse, bisogna rivalutare il ruolo dell'operatore per creare un clima di fiducia e collaborazione, che rappresenti il vero fondamento di una società sicura e coesa. 2025-04-24T09:37:12+02:00 Aerial security report France 2024 - CREDIT: Varactu The year 2024 marked a turning point for air -safety, with opposite dynamics between general aviation and commercial transport.In its annual report, the Office of Investigation and Analysis (BEA) highlights a notable decrease in the number of accidents in France, but also a renewed activity on the international scene.Decreased accidents, but vigilance maintained in 2024, France identified 177 air accidents, including 18 mortals, for a total of 30 deaths and 31 injured.This is a significant improvement compared to 2023: -16 % of accidents, -45 % of fatal accidents and -42 % of victims.General aviation, in particular ULM activity, has historically low figures, suggesting positive effects of prevention actions.However, certain events, although without serious human consequences, could have been much more dramatic.This is the case of two light aviation flight collisions that caused significant material damage, but miraculously without injured.Commercial transport: worrying incidents The commercial transport sector remains marked by several critical events.A collision between two Airbus A330s at Paris-Charles de Gaulle airport and a serious incident in Marseille-Provence involving a Boeing 737 and a Boeing 757 raise questions about the situational conscience of air controllers and the prevention of tracks on track.Globally, the BEA was involved in 249 foreign surveys, including five in category 1 (major events), including the accident of January 2 in Tokyo-Haneda between an Airbus A350 and a DHC8.Adaptation of resources and new guidelines The BEA opened 95 surveys in 2024, a decreased figure, linked to a reduction in category 3 surveys, less priority.It continues a refocusing strategy on cases with high added value in terms of security.From 2025, category 3 surveys will be deleted, making it possible to focus efforts on the most significant events.An experiment carried out with the French Aeronautical Federation (FFA) aims to better manage simplified surveys in the future, by delegating certain missions to specially trained investigators.A reactive BEA and turned to efficiency The report also highlights the growing ENG efficiency: 73 % of the surveys opened in 2024 were closed in less than a year.This performance is allocated to better organization, recruitment of investigators and the lack of major accident on French soil.[Email Protected] Our journalists provide the collection and writing of all the information published. ## 19. What are the typical food in Slovenia ?

Hi, sharing the information about typical food you requested earlier.

Top food items in Slovenia:

 "Slovenski Med" (Honey)

 One of the main distinctions of Slovenian honey comes from a very low water content and its characteristic pollen spectrum, which reflects the diverse flora of the area where honey is produced. As of 2013, the following types of honey can be marketed as Slovenski med: floral or nectar honey; forest or honeydew honey; acacia, linden, chestnut, fir and spruce honey. The production of honey in Slovenia is based exclusively on beekeeping of the Carniolan bee. This specific bee species is the second most widespread honey bee in the world, adapted to the wider area of Kočevje, once the historical region of Carniola. In fact, Slovenia is the only EU member state which has protected its native bee, after which it introduced controlled honey production in 1999. The excellence of Slovenski med is evidenced by the various awards received in both national and international competitions, for instance, numerous gold medal awards at the Apimedita & Apiquality world honey competition. Its most recent awards include the BioMiel 2011 international organic honey competition in Italy, where Slovenian acacia and forest honey won gold medals and chestnut honey came in at 4th place.

 "Krofi" (sweet-pastry)

 Krapfen was probably the first European-style doughnut to appear, followed by similar varieties in other countries. These pastries are traditionally prepared with leavened dough that is deep-fried until golden and crispy on the outside, while they remain soft, light, and airy on the inside. Though krapfen can be prepared plain, they are most often filled or topped with jams, and vanilla or chocolate custards, while the top is usually dusted with powdered sugar or drizzled with chocolate. The origin of the word krapfen dates back to 9th century, and the recipes in German can be found as early as the 14th century. The sweet versions of the pastry became predominant, and have remained closely associated with the Carnival, a festive period which precedes Christian Lent. Interestingly, during the Carnival, one krapfen in a batch filled with jam and fruit preserves might contain a filling of mustard as a prank. Read more

 "Gobova juha" (mushroom-soups)

 Gobova juha is a traditional mushroom soup. Although there are many variations, the soup is usually made with a combination of wild mushrooms, onions, garlic, butter, flour, potatoes, white wine or wine vinegar, bay leaves, marjoram, salt, and pepper. The onions are sautéed in butter and then mixed with flour and garlic. The mushrooms are cut into chunks and added to the pot with water, marjoram, bay leaves, potatoes, salt, and black pepper. The soup is simmered over low heat until the potatoes become tender. White wine or vinegar are added to the pot near the end of cooking, and the soup is then ladled into bowls and garnished with chopped parsley and a dollop of sour cream for extra creaminess. Gobova juha is especially popular in the fall.

 "Štruklji" (Dumplings)

 Štruklji is one of the most typical Slovenian dishes, consisting of different varieties of rolled dough that is filled with either savory or sweet ingredients such as cottage cheese, walnuts, apples, and poppy seeds. They can be found throughout Slovenia—in home kitchens, restaurants, and numerous mountain huts. Štruklji can be baked or cooked, and one unique variety of the dish is especially popular during spring and summer, when štruklji are filled with fresh tarragon. Originally, the dish was prepared at celebrations and festivities in order to celebrate the end of hard labor at the farms, and the practice was present until the 1930s, when people started making štruklji throughout the year.

 "Sirovi štruklji" (Dumplings)

 Sirovi or skutni (skutini) štruklji is a traditional variety of štruklji originating from Slovenia. The dough is made with a mixture of flour, water, eggs, oil, and salt. Once rested, it's rolled out into thin sheets that are topped with a mixture of sour cream and skuta (curd cottage cheese). Sugar and raisins are sometimes added to the mixture, but they're not mandatory. The dough is rolled up into a log, and the štruklji are wrapped in a kitchen cloth and then boiled in salted water until fully cooked. Once they've been taken out of the pot, the štruklji are cut into smaller pieces, and the dish is then enjoyed as it is or topped with breadcrumbs fried in butter.

 "Potica" (cakes)

 Commonly known as every Slovenian housewife's source of pride, potica is a traditional cake that is usually prepared for festivities and celebrations such as Christmas and Easter. The cake was derived from the older rolled dough cakes, and it was first mentioned in 1575. Originally, it was a cake reserved for the upper class, but over the years, it gained popularity with the peasants. There are around 60 types of potica, with various traditional fillings such as walnuts, hazelnuts, tarragon, honey, poppy seeds, and cottage cheese. Modern versions of potica even include chocolate as a filling. This dessert is a very important part of Slovenian cuisine, so much so that it was featured twice on Slovenian postage stamps. Today, the cake can be bought in supermarkets or consumed in numerous Slovenian restaurants, but it is said that homemade potica is still the best.

 "Kranjska klobasa" (Sausages)

 Internationally known as Carniolan or Krainers sausage, Kranjska klobasa originates from the historical region of Kranjska, once the Duchy of Carniola, a crown land of the Austrian Empire. It has the perfect meat-to-bacon ratio: at least 80% coarsely ground good-quality pork cuts (leg, shoulder, neck) and 20% bacon (back fat), seasoned with salt from the Sečovelje saltern, black pepper, and garlic. Funneling the meat mixture into natural casings forms 12-16 centimeter long sausages that are twisted into links, tied, and held together by a wooden skewer. The links are then pasteurized and hot-smoked until they reach a moderate reddish-brown color. To achieve what is known as the signature flavor of Kranjska klobasa, it's recommended not to boil it, as this would mean overcooking it, but to simply warm it up in hot water. Traditionally, this famous Slovenian product with a mild, smoky aroma is best enjoyed accompanied by sauerkraut and mustard.

 "Ocvirki" (pork-rinds)

 Čvarci or ocvirki is a traditional specialty that's popular in Southeastern Europe and the Balkans. This variety of pork rinds or cracklings is usually homemade, and it's made by thermally extracting fat from the lard. The lard is usually cut into blocks and fried in its own fat until it melts away and tough and crispy pork rind remain in the pot. During the process, čvarci are constantly stirred with big spoons, and milk is often added in order for them to obtain the color of caramel. Salt is typically added to the mixture, while some cooks like to add garlic or onions to the mixture. Čvarci are typically made in late autumn or winter, often during the pig slaughter, and they're usually enjoyed as a snack, served with bread and raw onions and paired with beer or rakija on the side. Small pieces of čvarci are often used in savory snacks such as pogačica s čvarcima.

 "Ajdovi žganci" (Porridge)

 Ajdovi žganci is the national dish of Slovenia, consisting of buckwheat flour and water. The word žganci is derived from žgati, meaning to burn. Originally, the dish was a basic meal for most people, a breakfast used to provide the daily nutrients and energy to farmers for their hard work during the day. Žganci was consumed as a substitute for bread, while the leftovers used to be toasted with lard the following day, so that no food went to waste. Today, the dish can be found throughout the country, but it is prepared differently in each region of Slovenia. It is commonly served with sauerkraut and grilled sausages on the side. Ajdovi žganci are considered the ultimate comfort food on cold winter days.

 "Prežganka" (Soups)

 Though it employs simple ingredients, prežganka is a Slovenian classic. This nourishing soup is prepared with water, flour that is lightly browned in oil, and spices such as caraway seeds, paprika, salt, and pepper. A lightly whisked egg is often added into the soup, which gives the dish a thicker consistency and a more complex flavor. Prežganka is commonly served with croutons or toasted bread on the side and is believed to be a great hangover remedy. A similar dish is found in Croatia, where it goes under the name prežgana juha or ajrjn prenj juha, and in Germany, where it is commonly referred to as a Aseimbrennsuppe.

20. What do we eat in Italy ?

Hey, these are the details about typical food you asked for recently.

Top food items in Italy:

 *Caprese Pizza* (Pizzas)

 This is a variety of Italian pizza that is traditionally topped with cherry tomatoes, mozzarella di bufala, olive oil, and fresh basil leaves. It provides a great way to use up leftover tomatoes, and some cooks like to finish it off with a drizzle of balsamic reduction on top.

---

 *Pizza ortolana* (Pizzas)

 The name of this classic Italian pizza translates to greengrocer's pizza. It consists of a basic pizza dough which is smeared with tomato sauce, topped with mozzarella and grilled slices of eggplant and zucchini, then baked. Lastly, pizza ortolana is typically drizzled with olive oil and topped with fresh basil.

 *Gelato di caffè* (ice-creams)

 This gelato variety is characterized by a subtle coffee flavor which is achieved with the addition of strong coffee to the base of milk, cream, eggs, and sugar. Alternatively, the base can be infused with roasted coffee beans. Caffè gelato is a great substitute for a traditional coffee, especially in the warm summer months. The classic version is occasionally enriched with chocolate chips, while the gelato may come in the robust espresso version or as the more subtle mocha or café au lait gelato. In Italy, all varieties are popular and are found in numerous gelaterias throughout the country.

 *Frittata di pasta* (pasta)

 Frittata di pasta is an Italian dish that's typically made with leftover pasta as the key ingredient. Spaghetti are among the most popular choices, but the dish can be made with any other type of pasta. Other ingredients vary from one recipe to another, but eggs and grated cheese are always used, while the additional ingredients might include prosciutto, sausage bits, or mushrooms. Once cooked, the frittata is flipped on a plate, then cut into wedges. It's recommended to serve frittata di pasta with a fresh salad on the side.

 *Minestrone* (vegetable-soups)

 One of the very bases of traditional Italian cuisine, minestrone is a thick, chunky soup made with whichever vegetables are in season. Historically, being a poor man's food dating as far back as the year 30 CE, this peasant-style soup was made with a mashed bean or spelt base and leftovers from various contorni (side dishes) and other meals. Today, even though there's not a set recipe for this dish and every region has its own version, the most common ingredients include stock, onions, tomatoes, celery, carrots, and legumes. The vegetables are cut-up and simmered for quite a long time, but they must not turn mushy. Lastly, pasta or rice can be added to round-up this inexpensive, yet filling dish. Depending on the method of cooking, these flavorful soups are divided into two main categories: minestrone a crudo and minestrone col soffritto. While the first version uses raw vegetables and often garlic-flavored olive oil added towards the end of cooking, minestrone col soffritto is made with vegetables which are first sautéed in butter, oil, pork fat or lard, together with pancetta (bacon) and pork rind. The perfect comfort food to warm a cold day, minestrone is even better when made in advance and served reheated, as it takes some time for the flavors to fuse and deepen.

21. I want to eat super german typical. What food do you suggest me to try ?

Hello, here are the details about typical food you needed.

Top food items in Germany:

 *Filet* (american-beef-cuts)

 In the American, French, German, Brazilian, and Korean systems of primal beef cuts, the tenderloin is a cut from the loin, which is located towards the back of the cow, nestled under the ribs, next to the backbone. It spans two primal cuts: the short loin and the sirloin. The tenderloin is one of the most tender cuts of beef as it comes from a muscle that doesn't get much exercise. It is also one of the most highly prized and correspondingly expensive cuts of beef, due to its tenderness and flavor. Given the tenderness of this cut, the tenderloin is often cooked quickly over high heat, with methods such as grilling or broiling. It's often served slightly rare to maintain its tender texture.

 *Spanferkel* (pork-dishes)

 Spanferkel is the German version of roasted suckling pig. Whether it is prepared cut or whole, the piglet is usually roasted in the oven or on a spit, and comes in numerous regional varieties that are often smothered in oil or butter, stuffed, then seasoned or rubbed with spices. In Germany, suckling pig is traditionally associated with festive and special occasions and is usually accompanied by a sauce made from meat drippings, or various vegetables and salads.

 *Rumtopf* (fruit-preserves)

 German rumtopf originated as a technique in which spring and summer fruits were preserved in overproof rum to be used during winter. Although there are many variations to the traditional recipe, typical choice of fruit includes cherries, strawberries, apricots, peaches, pears, plums, and pineapples. The first fruit varieties to ripen were mixed with rum and sugar, while other fruits were added later, in layers. The preserve is usually left to mellow until Christmas, and the boozy fruits are typically served over ice cream, puddings, waffles, or sponge cakes.

 *Schupfnudeln* (pasta-varieties)

 Even though schupfnudeln are often labeled as German potato dumplings, they are best described as a variety of fresh pasta made with a combination of mashed potatoes and flour. Characterized by their unusual cylindrical shape, they are either boiled or pan-fried until crispy. Schupfnudeln are eaten throughout the country, and they are used in a variety of savory and sweet dishes. They are best combined with sauerkraut, bacon, and creamy sauces, but they can also be enjoyed as an accompaniment to hearty German stews. If served as a dessert, they are usually given a light dusting of powdered sugar or coated in sweetened poppy seeds or breadcrumbs.

 *Quince paste (Quittenbrot)* (fruit-preserves)

 Quince paste is an unusual fruit preserve often referred to as membrillo in Spanish, or occasionally as quince cheese. This delightful product is made with quince fruit, similar in appearance to large pears or apples, with green and yellow skin, and hard, pale white, and tart pulp. When cooked, it has a unique characteristic to turn slightly sweet and change color to rosy pink. To create this delightful paste, they are cooked in water, puréed, and mixed with sugar. When set, due to significant pectin content, the mixture turns into a soft but firm jelly-like creation with a slightly floral flavor. The preserve is extremely popular in Spain, but is also native to many other regions around the world. It is commonly found in many European countries, North and Latin America, the Philippines, Australia, and many Middle Eastern countries. As it is mostly prepared in flat, rectangular shapes, the paste is typically served thinly sliced and combined with a variety of ingredients. Most commonly, it is eaten plain, paired with cheese or crackers as a quick snack, or used as a stuffing or spread on toasted bread and pastries.

 *Blutwurst* (blood-sausages)

 Belonging to the category of cooked sausages, blutwurst is a famous German blood sausage with many regional varieties. It is predominantly made with pork and incorporates animal blood, fat, and meat, next to a wide variety of seasonings such as marjoram, allspice, and thyme. Blutwurst comes in various sizes, and many regional versions include barley, oats, or bread, while some varieties may even consist of diced bacon or innards. Since this blood sausage is typically cooked, it has a firm consistency and is commonly enjoyed as an appetizer alongside other cold cuts. It is usually shortly boiled or fried and served warm, often complemented by mashed potatoes or sauerkraut on the side.

 *Sülze* (meat-jelly)

 Sülze (or Sulz in Austrian cuisine) is a type of German meat jelly or aspic, typically made with pork. The preparation of Sülze begins with simmering meat, often including parts rich in collagen like pork knuckles, ears, or even tongue, along with vegetables and spices. The collagen from the meats creates a natural gelatin as it cools. The meat is then removed from the bones, cut into small pieces, and mixed back into the strained broth. This mixture is poured into a mold and left to cool, typically overnight. The gelatin in the broth solidifies as it cools, creating a jelly-like consistency. Sülze is served cold and is often sliced and served with garnishes like pickles, onions, or a side of bread. It can be found in many traditional German and Austrian restaurants and is a common sight in local delis. It's a classic example of nose-to-tail cooking, where all parts of the animal are used, helping to reduce waste.

22. Is there severe weather in Geneva next week ?

Hello, this is the answer to your request with the answers about warnings and alerts you asked for recently.

 News for Geneva:

=====

 Date and Time: Updated: May. 10, 2025, 11:50 a.m.

 Description: On Saturday at 11:47 a.m. an updated tornado warning was issued by the National Weather Service in effect until noon for Geneva and Houston counties. "At 11:46 a.m., a severe thunderstorm capable of producing a tornado was located near Slocumb, or 7 miles northwest of Graceville, moving northeast at 30 mph," says the weather service. "Flying debris will be dangerous to those caught without shelter. Mobile homes will be damaged or destroyed. Damage to roofs, windows, and vehicles will occur. Tree damage is likely." Locations impacted by the warning include Merritts Crossroads, Fadette, Olympia Spa Resort, Keytons, Taylor, Light, Rehobeth, Slocumb, Malvern, Memphis and Dothan. The weather service adds, "Take cover now! Move to a basement or an interior room on the lowest floor of a sturdy building. Avoid windows. If you are outdoors, in a mobile home, or in a vehicle, move to the closest substantial shelter and protect yourself from flying debris." When it comes to tornadoes, understanding the distinction between a Tornado watch and a Tornado warning can be a matter of life and death. Here's a breakdown: Tornado watch: Be prepared! Tornado warning: Take action! Knowing the distinction between these two alerts is paramount for staying safe during tornado season. Stay informed, have a plan, and act promptly when danger looms. Be weather-ready: Keep an eye on the weather forecast to stay informed about tornado risks. Tune in to local news or a NOAA Weather Radio for updates on tornado watches and warnings Sign up for notifications: Familiarize yourself with your community's warning systems. Some places have outdoor sirens, while others rely on media and smartphone alerts for severe storm notifications. Create a communication plan: Have a family plan that includes an emergency meeting place and related information. If you live in a mobile home or home without a basement, identify a nearby safe building you can get to quickly, such as a church or family member. Choose a secure shelter: Pick a safe room within your home, such as a basement, storm cellar, or an interior room on the lowest floor without windows. Establish a communication plan: Conduct a family severe thunderstorm drill regularly so everyone knows what to do if a tornado is approaching. Make sure all members of your family know to go there when tornado warnings are issued. Don't forget pets if time allows. Prepare your home: Consider having your safe room reinforced. You can find plans for reinforcing an interior room to provide better protection on the Federal Emergency Management Agency website. Extend a helping hand: Encourage your loved ones to prepare for the possibility of tornadoes. Take CPR training so you can help if someone is hurt. When a tornado strikes, taking swift action is crucial to ensuring your safety and minimizing potential harm. Follow these guidelines from the weather service: Stay informed: To ensure your safety during a tornado, remember that acting promptly is crucial, according to the weather service. Stay informed about tornado watches and warnings through regular updates on local news or a NOAA Weather Radio. At home: If you find yourself under a tornado warning, immediately seek refuge in your basement, safe room, or an interior room without windows. If there's enough time, bring your pets with you. At work or school: In the workplace or at school, adhere to tornado drill procedures and proceed promptly and calmly to your designated tornado shelter. Avoid areas with large, open spaces like cafeterias, gymnasiums, or auditoriums, and stay away from windows. Outdoors: If you're outdoors and a tornado is approaching, seek immediate shelter inside a sturdy building. Sheds, storage facilities, mobile homes, and tents are not safe. If there's time, make your way to a secure structure. In a vehicle: It is not safe to be in a vehicle during a tornado. The recommended action is to drive to the nearest shelter. If reaching a safe shelter is not possible, either crouch down in your car and cover your head, or leave your vehicle and seek refuge in a low-lying area like a ditch or ravine. Always keep in mind that taking swift action and following established safety procedures are crucial for your well-being when a tornado threat is imminent.
